REVENUE TRIALS AT GREENSBORD

District Attorney Holton Taken Sick in the Court.

TRIED TO PROVE COLLUSION.

Vouchers and Checks Between Samuels and Combes to lay the foundation for building up proof on a count, charging Samuel with collarion with shother to defraud the government by means of fraudulent intornier's reports. This witness was blockader, whose still had been reported to the government by Samuel as having been distroyed, when the copper hadn't been touched. Producing from the inter-nal revenue files the informer's voucher, James Combes, whose name was ten with a cross, attested by Samuel written with a cross, attested by Santostand the check paying the amount, ostensibly to Combes, but again attested by Samuel Holton, which, after a tedious contest, was not permitted by Judge Boyd to present his evidence. Aycock, Bynum and Watson strongly contended for the defendant that the testimony was incimns ant, and the informer's voucher and checks irrevalant. Holton said that he proposed to show by thirty such checks and informer's vouchers attested by Samuel, and all in combes's name, checks and informer's vouchers attested by Samuel, and all in Combes's name, that there was corrupt collusion between Combes and Samuel, whereby the officer got this money, and in return Combes was allowed to run his still in half a mile, unmolested of the one run by witness, which Samuel had destroyed.

Judge Boyd ruled that at this stage such evidence was not permissible. During the whole argument it was seen that the district attorney was laboring under apparent embarrassment. His face was white as a sheet, and when he would arise to address the court, there was not that game ginger so characteristic of him. After walving the witness from the stand and fluttering the papers (a big bundle of checks and informer's vouchers) to the government custodian, he dropped his head on the table, and in almost a sob, exclaimed: "Oh, I am so sick, and my head roars like a cataract!". The jury was placed in charge of an officer, and court adjourned.

was placed in charge of an officer, and court adjourned.

Judge Boyd remarked from the bench that Holton would yet kill himself working, mentioning that he worked all night and all day under the heaviest mental and official strain. He had been deprived of valuable assistance of Assistant District Attorney Price this term by reason of the death of his father. The defendant's Junsel expressed the deepest sympathy with the district attorney, Governor Aycock saying that, had he known when court reassembled that Holton was sick, he would not have entered into the heavy debate.

sick, he would not have entered into the heavy debate.

Testimony at the morning session was directed to the count charging false reports of destruction of a steam distifiery belonging to Combes, witnesses testifying that, as far back as 1903, it was running, and that report of Samuel to department in March, 1905, of its destruction was false.

Just before the noon recess Holton began testimony, trying to prove collusion hetween Combes and Samuel, by evidence that they were constantly together in Wilkesboro, Combes frequently being in his room with Samuel at Holel. Holton also made effort to show that L. E. Davis, fintimate with Samuel, had given the warning Sunday of officers coming on the big raid Monday, but evidence offered was ruled out as incompetent. He has had hard sliding every step of the way, and his physical collapse was not surprising.

The grand jury was discharged for the term. They have found seventy true bills during the week—one new one against Samuel, one against A. C. Bryan, another officer already indicted.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL,

Few People Know How Useful it is in Preserving Health and Beauty,

Nearly everybody knows that charcons is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifor in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remdy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and inverties a lawky present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onlons and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poleon of catarrh.

All drugg'sts sell charcoal in one form another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; the charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, botter complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the octary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion, and provided the physician of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients; yithe breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twen ry-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal lozenges to all patients charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients and to clear the complexion and purity the daily use of them; they cost but twen ry-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal table.

In simple words, the charge against Bonini was that of "bridging the meter." He was alleged to have disconnected the wire that entered the meter, rubbed the insulation fro ma wire on the other side, and instead of running the current through the meter where the amount used would be registered, it was side-tracked. The attention of the Passenger and Power Company was first called to the case by the decrease in the bills. They fell from about $2 to $4 within two or three months, and an investigation was made. The meter was found tampered with, and a small bottle had been placed in the wires, it was alleged, to change the connection.

The grave disturbed was that of Mrs. Leonard Skeeter, whose death occurred three months ago.

Weith CONTEST.

There will be a bitter contest for $5,000 worth of land the ownership of which is in dispute. The property is at the intersection of Duke and Grace streets, and was redeemed from the water by filling. It was formerly marsh land, and has never been used, but with the growth of the city and the gradual filling from the street sweepings and otherwise it has assumed the condition of building lots. The overt acts of the conject for the land began yestrday when C. E. Townsend, a real estate agent, sent a carpenter and special policeman there to place a fence on a part of the property which he declared was his by right of a deed which was made in proper form by a man who professed to have acquired the property in a legal manner. A. S. Martin, a capitalist, who says he has been living on the adjoining pipoperty since 1872, and that he filled the marsh, had the fence cut down, and his son-in-law, C. H. Bull, a member of the City had the fence cut down, and his son-in law, C. H. Bull, a member of the City Council, supports that claim. Mr. Town-send declares with threats against Mr. send declares with threats against air, Martin's life. All of the participants in the struggle for the possession of the land were arrested, and in the Police Court this morning the fines were distributed as follows: C. E. Townsend was Sets Fire to Church and Attacks the Organ With An Axe.

BREAKS DOORS OF DWELLING

Insanity Produced by Excitement at Religious Meeting-Congregation Not in Sympathy.

BUCHANAN, VA., October 7.—While in a sudden fit of insanity yesterday afternoon, Roy. He also set fire to another house on his own lot occupied part of Buchanan. He also set fire to another house on his own lot occupied by Wyley Russ as a residence, the fire from the stable quickly communicated to the church building, a large frame structure, and all three buildings were quickly consumed. After scattering the fire brands Booze armed himself with an axe and went into the church and began to demolish the church organ and whatever was breakable inside. He then proceeded down the street, and with his axe broke in several doors, greatly terrifying the women.

In the meantime the alarm of the fire and the madman's actions brought some men to the scene and he was overpowered and taken to the lock-up. Booze's mind has been unbalanged several times previous to this, his most violent outbreak, and he was at one time confined in the asylum, while in his right mind he has been peaceable and well behaved and commanded the respect of his neighbors. During the past week a protracted meeting has been in progress at the church, and more or less excitement connected therewith. Booze's actions at the meeting Thursday night ditracted attention and it is now said that he was burned has recently been completed after many years of active efforts on the part of its members. It was a very handsome structure considering the means of the membership.

The colored people are greatly excited over the affair and do not feel any pity for the unfortunate man and his wife, who it appears was afraid that he hushand would be taken away to the asylum, and endeavored to concan his confittion Some doubt his insanity and charse his acts to a fealous rage, it being said that he wanted to be pastor of the church and was mad because he had not been called After the fire started a crowd gathered in time to save the homes of several colored families near-

DONATION DAY,

HOME FOR INCURABLES.

Among the poor and afflicted there is no class whose condition appeals so pathetically and irresistibly to human sympathy as the one we call "the incurable." Dead, indeed, must be the heart that is not moved to pity in the presence of a sick and suffering fellow-being, for whose malady modical science has no remedy. The number of these unfortunates is increasing every day, and the provision which State and municipal government and charitable individuals have made for them is sadly inadequate. For many years Richmond has had a home for "the incurables." It has been supported almost entirely by the voluntary offerings of its friends, and, though these gifts have been insufficient for the needs of the institution, it has done a work which deserves the everlasting gratitude of the public. The noble women who have laid it upon their hearts and bestowed upon it so much personal attention and labor are ministering angles for whom no words of appreciation would be extravagant.

Many poor sufferers are seeking admission into the home, but there is no room for them, unless the fourth floor can be opened, and there is not money enough in the treasury to admit of that at present.
